Hangover cure

Guybrush uses it to find out the recipe to cure Griswold Goodsoup's hangover. It also tells him how to cause extreme death-like drowsiness by mixing it with alcohol which he does to fake his death to get buried in the Goodsoup Family Tomb. At the end of the game, it is used again (albeit in a makeshift way) to cure the child curse put on Guybrush by LeChuck at the Carnival of the Damned.

Trivia

- The story of the editor's friend's aunt handing out a complimentary copy of Blondebeard's recipe is a joke about a popular urban legend (<https://web.archive.org/web/20100615230402/http://www.snopes.com/business/consumer/cookie.asp>) about a woman who was wrongfully charged $250 for a cookie recipe, and so sent it around for free in chain-letter e-mails.
- Phenylalanine (an ingredient in Yellow Beard's Baby) was also mentioned by Lemonhead as one of the things they tried to calm down Mount Acidophilus.
- Yellow Beard's Baby, Bloody Stump, and Blue Whale are all drinks available in Monkey Island 2: LeChuck's Revenge at the Bloody Lip; they are respectively coloured yellow, red and blue. Mixing the yellow and blue drinks makes a green drink that thickens one's spit—a trick not revealed in that game.
- The Bloated Tick can be ordered at the bar after Griswold is cured. Blondebeard's biscuit is also an obtainable item in the Mega-Monkey version of the game.
